Spring brings new digs, new programs and more at Business & Industry

Springtime brings longer days, changing weather and the reemergence of life all around us. It’s with this sense of a new beginning that many people are inspired to participate in the “spring cleaning” ritual to start fresh! This year, the Department of Business and Industry is also welcoming the season with new beginnings and a fresh start.

Nevada State Business Center
The previous edition of The Business Advocate announced the impending centralization of the director’s office and 10 of the department’s agency offices in Las Vegas at the new Nevada State Business Center. We have completed the move and are now fully operational at 3300 W. Sahara Avenue on floors 2-4. We’re anxiously awaiting construction work being completed in the main entrance to the parking garage in the coming months. In the meantime, if you plan to visit us, please follow the signage posted around the property that directs you to the parking garage entrance on the west side. From the parking garage, follow the sign directing you to the building’s main entrance which is located on the 2nd floor.

New Workshops and Training Offered at the NSBC
One of the key initiatives of the director’s office is to provide information and resources to businesses that are looking to start or grow a business in Nevada. We now have 3 multipurpose rooms at the NSBC that will allow us to host free trainings and educational opportunities in collaboration with community partners and our agencies. Our first workshop, Developing a Business Model Canvas is scheduled for May 3rd. > Read more about our plans and the details of the workshop in the Entrepreneurship + Innovation feature on page 5!

Veterans and Senior Citizens Small Business Startup Loan Program
We are also announcing the impending launch of a new micro-loan program for veterans and senior citizens that are looking for capital to start or operate a business. The administrative details are being finalized but we plan to officially open the program very soon! > Read more about the Veterans and Senior Citizens Small Business Startup Loan Program on page 3!

Governor’s Conference on Business 2017
Registration is now open for the 6th annual Governor’s Conference on Business, scheduled for August 17, 2017 at the Nugget Casino Resort in Sparks. This comprehensive business resource and networking event is designed for entrepreneurs seeking to launch a new venture and business owners interested in growing or improving their business. The conference will feature a Business Resource Expo, breakout learning sessions, a Business Pitch Competition and a luncheon featuring a keynote address by Governor Brian Sandoval. If you are interested in attending, exhibiting or pitching, please visit business.nv.gov/GCB/Home for more information! > Read more about the Business Pitch Competition on page 2!

The Business Advocate
And finally, The Business Advocate is now in the fourth year of publication and it was time for a facelift! The current edition of the newsletter features a fresh new design while maintaining the same approach to providing information, resources and business opportunities that businesses throughout the state can use. As always, we welcome your questions, suggestions or compliments.
Crowdfunding, as the name suggests, is a way of raising funds for a project, nonprofit, or business through individual contributions from a large number of people. This type of alternative financing has grown in popularity over the past decade and the trend is predicted to continue into the future. To illustrate, in 2012 ventures raised more than $2.5 billion, in 2015 $35 billion was raised, and an estimated $300 billion per year is predicted to be raised through crowdfunding by 2025.

In the past, solicitation for donations or investments was done through direct mail solicitations, benefit events, or asking friends and family to support your cause. Now, with the help of dedicated online crowdfunding platforms and the power of social media, ventures can reach far more potential investors. The top three fee-based online platforms, measured by the amount of funds raised include GoFundMe, Kickstarter, and Indiegogo.

Funds raised by businesses can range from a few hundred dollars to multi-millions. For example, a Nevada-based novelty frame company raised $5,000, another Nevada company in the robotics R&D field raised over $100,000 and the highest crowdfunded product to date, a new smart watch, raised over $20 million.

There are three primary types of crowdfunding: donation-based, rewards-based, and equity-based. Donation-based, as you may expect, generally includes fundraising for non-profit organizations, charities and disaster relief with no financial return to the investor. Reward-based involves contributing to the business in exchange for a reward or benefit such as products, discounts or special offers but no equity or financial return. Finally, equity-based allows contributors to become part owners of the company by giving equity shares and offers potential financial gain.

Due to the growth in crowdfunding as a capital raising mechanism and the Securities Act of 1933, it was necessary to pass legislation to allow businesses generally not registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) to directly solicit equity investments. In April 2012, the Jumpstart Our Business Startups Act, or JOBS Act was signed into law, and the regulations were finalized in May 2016. Ruth E. Hedges, a local Nevadan and pioneer of the crowdfunding legislation states, “Regulation crowdfunding imposes a host of requirements on companies, investors, and intermediaries…notwithstanding…crowdfunding offers a distinct advantage over the traditional capital raising process for startups, and small business owners because you now have access to a large pool of 100’s of millions of potential investors online with billions of dollars of discretionary income.”

Nevadans are fortunate to have a unique opportunity to explore the potential of crowdfunding at the 6th annual Global Crowdfunding Convention in Las Vegas October 23-24. Visit http://thegccworld.com/ for more information.

It’s spring! That means it’s time for America’s favorite pastime. No, not baseball. Business!

It’s time to start planning for the 2017 Governor’s Conference on Business and — if you’re a daring entrepreneur looking for fame, glory and some money — the Business Pitch Competition. Every year, the Governor’s Conference hosts this competition, which features early-stage Nevada businesses vying for cash and prizes. This year, the Governor's Conference on Business will be held at the Nugget Resort Casino in Sparks, Nevada, on Thursday, August 17.

If you are a start-up business with an innovative product, consider applying! Information on the conference and the pitch competition is available online at the Department of Business and Industry’s website, business.nv.gov

To apply, a business must:
- Have a business license in the State of Nevada.
- Have been operating for less than two years.
- Generate less than $250,000 in annual gross revenue.
- Represent a business project or concept in the early stages of development, launch, or operation.
- Be an entrepreneurial start-up without direct or indirect operating relationship to an existing large-scale corporation, investment fund or government agency.

The goal of the competition is to highlight the entrepreneurial spirit of Nevadans and to help promote the interesting and innovative things Nevadans are doing in the world of small business and start-up enterprises. Join the fun and check out the 2017 Business Pitch Competition! The deadline to apply and submit the required documentation for the Business Pitch Competition is 8:00 am, June 26. For questions, please contact Karen Schnog, kschnog@business.nv.gov.
Q: Does a business need a social media strategy?

A: Creating tactics is always the fun part of marketing—whether it’s the advertisement, social media components, television interview or the promotion, these are the enjoyable tools we enjoy crafting to drive our business forward.

However, without a strategy to guide a campaign, they end up being solo components lacking cohesiveness. In marketing, tactics that constantly deliver your message and reinforce your brand are called touch points. Touch points work when they connect to each other like links in a chain, with a common theme and message.

The entire concept is referred to as “stickiness” and really identifies how well your messaging sticks to the customer.

A strategy doesn’t need to be a year’s work poured into binders loaded with content. The shorter the better, increasing the odds that the strategy will be implemented, is a great rule of thumb and most businesses’ marketing strategies can be completed in less than five pages.

A strategy should follow the SMART concept for goal setting: specific, measurable, attainable, realistic and time sensitive (deadline). A goal has to be set; and then a strategy created; this will be your path to reach those goals. Only then is it appropriate to start designing the fun tactics that will push out your message. Your strategy should also contain who your target audience is, a SWOT analysis of your business (strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats), how you will measure the progress and results and how you will celebrate achieving your goals!

Additionally, you should clearly define your marketing message, understand what is unique about your business, service or products (also known as the USP), and have a solid working knowledge of how your clients use your business and what their needs are.

Your strategy should be a simple road map to accomplish your objectives, move the needle on your progress and obtain the goals you set out for your business.

Chinese philosopher and general Sun Tzu wrote 2,000 years ago, “Strategy without tactics is the slowest route to victory. Tactics without strategy is the noise before defeat.”

New loan program to offer micro-loans to seniors, veterans

The Department of Business and Industry, on behalf of the Department of Employment, Training and Rehabilitation (DETR), will soon be launching a new micro-loan program aimed at helping Nevada veterans and senior citizens, those 62 or older, seeking money to start or run a small business. The lending program, which was authorized by the Nevada Legislature, will be administered by a third-party vendor on behalf of the state.

Known as the Veterans and Senior Citizens Small Business Startup Loan Program, the program will offer micro-loans of up to $15,000 each to Nevada veterans or senior citizens who want to start or run their own business. Maximum loan length will be four years. The first year of each loan will be interest free.

If a loan is not repaid within the first year, a variable interest rate will be applied beginning in the second year at a favorable rate.

Other standards will apply, including annual program funding limits, but the program is intended to give interested veterans and senior citizens access to low- and no-cost money for business purposes. The program is part of DETR’s Career Enhancement Program, which helps promote employment and retraining opportunities for Nevadans.

If you are a Nevada veteran or senior citizen starting or running a business, watch the Department of Business and Industry’s website – business.nv.gov – for announcement of the official start date and vendor contact information. You may also contact Karen Schnog at (702) 486-3755 or kschnog@business.nv.gov if you have any questions.
Adams Hub is a business incubator and co-working habitat in downtown Carson City, founded by The Hop & Mae Adams Foundation in 2012. The organization was recently recognized by Economic Development Authority of Western Nevada (EDAWN) in its 2017 Awards for “Entrepreneurial Program of the Year.”

The two-story facility in the historic district occupies a fully renovated building just one block from the state capitol. Its state-of-the-art interiors resemble business incubators in the Bay Area, with light-filled conference rooms and private offices. A multi-purpose space called The Studio at Adams Hub opened in 2016, and now hosts events ranging from fundraisers for local non-profits to marketing classes for Western Nevada College.

“Our mission is broader than that of most incubators,” says Miya MacKenzie, Chief Professional Officer of Adams Hub. “Our goal is to increase business opportunities and employment in Northern Nevada.”

The award-winning program includes:

- An intensive Pre-Accelerator designed to ignite growth for scaling startups
- A Carson chapter of Entrepreneurs Assembly, a Nevada non-profit that supports startups, small businesses and even people working on a business idea
- Lunchbox Learning sessions, monthly classes on an array of business topics
- Research Ninjas, research assistance sessions with Carson City Librarians, who utilize proprietary databases
- Motivation Mondays, private coaching sessions for entrepreneurs who want to increase their personal effectiveness, with business coach Diane Dye Hansen of What Works consulting.

Adams Hub’s Entrepreneur in Residence (EIR) Matt Westfield, an adjunct professor of business at UNR, maintains weekly office hours to consult with businesses. He also serves on mentor teams for incubator companies. MacKenzie, who previously founded marketing agency MacWest Marketing, serves as marketing EIR and mentor. Community Curator Peggy Wynne Borgman, a former spa and wellness entrepreneur, also serves on mentor teams. Adams Hub’s rich mentor network includes more than forty local, experienced entrepreneurs and business executives who volunteer their time to help Adams Hub’s entrepreneurs and startups.

Incubator clients may also utilize the services of a team of interns, most of them University of Nevada Reno students.

“Most early-stage startups are bootstrapped or running on lean budgets, so hiring talent is a challenge,” explains MacKenzie. “Clients love the intern program, and student interns gain valuable business experience, and contribute to a new venture.”

In addition to its dedicated incubation offices, five conference rooms and event space, Adams Hub offers the only co-working facility in Carson City and the Carson Valley with open seating and a private telephone lounge. Rounding out Adams Hub offerings are a rooftop deck, ultra-fast fiber internet, and of course, endless coffee and tea. A variety of membership plans accommodate everyone from solopreneurs to small startup teams, as well as students.

Anticipating an even busier 2017, Adams Hub is currently expanding its mentor team and accepting applications for new co-working clients and incubator companies.

PantyDrop founder Julie Arsenault participated in the Adams Hub fall 2016 Pre-Accelerator program. During the intensive program, facilitator Kevin Lyon encourages participants to speak to more potential customers to help better determine their target market. Through this process, Julie was surprised to discover that the lingerie subscription company’s primary target market was not who she assumed it was when she first started the business.

She found an under-served market that responded beautifully to her value proposition, made the pivot and blew the doors off her sales forecast in December, adding many premium subscribers. She told us that the Pre-Accelerator Program was the most important thing she had done for her business last year.
The Department of Business & Industry has transformed the former Wells Fargo Financial Center, located at 3300 West Sahara Avenue in Las Vegas into a new and vibrant business center for growing business in Nevada. Ten of the department’s agency offices and the director’s office are now operating out of this new location. In addition to office space for B&I agencies to provide regulatory oversight and licensing services, the new business center provides rooms for meetings and workshops with flexible configurations, video conferencing services, and plug-and-play presentation technology. The three multi-purpose rooms—Nevada, Tahoe and Red Rock—are located on the 4th floor.

With the centralization effort complete, Business & Industry begins a new chapter in supporting a vibrant business ecosystem in Nevada by offering educational workshops and providing space for meetings and meet-ups, networking opportunities, as well as access to connect with local resources for up-and-coming entrepreneurs and business owners. In collaboration with local business resource partners, our workshop series will help business owners and entrepreneurs in all types of industries and development stages. It will feature guest speakers on topics designed to enrich experiences and build tools and capabilities to enable businesses and entrepreneurs to succeed such as business creation and development, new tools and techniques, social enterprises, and development for local and global growth.

Our inaugural workshop, Developing a Business Model Canvas will be held on Wednesday, May 3 from 5:00 to 7:00 pm in the Nevada Room. Offered in collaboration with RedFlint, this free evening workshop will guide you through the process of developing a business model canvas— a visual chart that helps you frame your business idea and put it in writing.

With easy access to a wealth of online resources and platforms full of timely articles, blogs, videos and more, why bother to go to a physical location and attend a workshop in person? Well, simply put, there are many benefits that you can only receive by attending in person. Below are just a few of the 12 reasons cited by Richard Brooks, agency director for Flyte New Media for attending a conference or workshop. To read the complete, useful and fun article visit http://www.takeflyte.com/reasons-to-attend-conferences.

• Meet experts and influencers face to face – “Sometimes it’s about taking a selfie with someone who’s influenced you, or sharing a business idea with someone you admire, or making a connection that can lead to finding your next mentor.”
• Networking opportunities – “There’s no substitution for meeting someone in real life.”
• Learning in a new space – “Remember that scene in Dead Poet’s Society when Robin Williams made his students stand on a desk to get a fresh perspective?”
• Break out of your comfort zone – “Going hand-in-hand with the previous reason, live events force you to break out of your comfort zone.”
• Greater focus – “The flip side of learning new things is relearning classic techniques.”
• The energy of like-minded individuals - “There’s nothing like being in a room of like-minded people. Other people who want to better themselves.”
• Invest in yourself - “It’s admitting that you’re worth it. It’s admitting that you still have things to learn. That you can get better.”
• Have fun! – “Live events with other people are fun!”

We hope you will plan to join us on May 3rd for the business model canvas workshop and receive numerous benefits from attending an event in person, as well as the valuable information presented on this very useful topic.

Free Workshop: Developing a Business Model Canvas
Wednesday, May 3, 2017
5:00– 5:30 pm: Networking; 5:30– 7:00 pm: Workshop
Nevada State Business Center, 3300 W. Sahara Avenue, Nevada Room (4th floor)

Offered in collaboration with RedFlint, this free evening workshop will guide you through the process of developing a business model canvas: a visual chart that can help you frame your business idea and put it in writing. Having a great idea is only one portion of the equation for success and the time spent in this workshop could possibly be the best two hours spent on your business.

Workshop Takeaways:

• We will explore how the business model canvas can be used to create a solid business model around your idea and what resources are necessary to drive your new venture toward creating value.
• The first 30 registrants will receive a copy of the RedFlint Entrepreneurial Journey notebook.

RSVP required, please email cfoley@business.nv.gov to reserve your spot!
