Business Relationships – More Than A Rolodex

Your Fellow Business People Might Be Able To:

- Share their business advice and experience.
- Provide leads to people, information or resources.
- Help with money or financing for your business.
- Refer customers to your business.
- Direct you to job opportunities for your business.
- Help you find business partners, coworkers or employees.
- Create more contacts for you through people they know.

Develop Good Relationships By:

- Networking! Get out to events and meet with people.
- Staying in touch. Follow up on what contacts are doing.
- Building trust. Never take advantage of someone.
- Showing a genuine interest in people. Learn what's important to them. Listen to them. Ask questions.
- Being the first to act or do a favor. A giving attitude is rewarded with relationships more than a taking attitude. Give more than asked.
- Focusing on quality of relationships, not quantity. Be open to all, but invest in the relationships that are mutually beneficial.

Don't Make These Mistakes:

- Being impersonal (all business, all the time).
- Not showing appreciation.
- Forgetting to update people who have helped you on how things are going.
- Being inconsistent in how you treat people.
- Acting unprofessionally when things don't go as expected.
- Not admitting your mistakes.
- Not being careful in what you say or how you say it.
- Surrounding yourself with untrustworthy people.
- Keeping too many secrets. People trust transparency.

BUSINESS STRUCTURE

The business structure you choose will have legal and tax implications. The links to the right provide more information and help on this important topic. Do your research, seek the advice of an accountant or attorney, and pick the structure that will work best for you and your business.

When you're ready, register your business structure at SilverFlume, Nevada's only online portal to handle all your licensing and registration needs in one place. To do that, click the SilverFlume button below to get started.

Back to Guide Menu

NAMING YOUR BUSINESS

If you don't want to use your given name for your business (Jane Smith, for example), you will have to file a Fictitious Name Form (also known as a "Doing Business As" or "DBA" form) with the State of Nevada and with every county in which you plan to do business. When selecting a business name, ensure it is not being used in the state already. If it is, you will need to choose another name.

For information on the state DBA filing and to check existing business names in Nevada, go to SilverFlume, Nevada's only online portal to handle all your licensing and registration needs in one place (use the link below). Use SilverFlume's "Nevada Business Search" feature to check existing business names.

For information on county DBA filings, use SilverFlume or the map on the Business Licensing Page in this Guide to connect with the filing contacts for each Nevada county.

BUSINESS LOCATION

Where you open shop can play a critical role in the success or failure of your business operation. For tips on handling this aspect of your business, click on the links to the right.

BEFORE locating your business anywhere in Nevada, first verify the zoning requirements of the jurisdiction in which you want to put it and then ask whether the jurisdiction offers any programs or incentives for locating the business in certain redevelopment areas.

Use the map on the Licensing Page of this Guide to connect with the jurisdiction(s) you are considering.

OTHER LICENSES & PERMITS

Depending on the type of business you plan to operate, you may need other licenses or permits in addition to your business license. These other licenses or permits typically fall into one of three categories: Professional, Environmental, and Public Health.

For example, certain professions require a license from a special board before you can do business in Nevada. Some businesses require environmental permits to address air, water or hazardous waste aspects of the business operation. Other activities may require public health licenses or permits to ensure public safety.

To learn about these categories and whether any of their requirements might apply to you, click the buttons on the right.

Professional

Some professions require additional licensing approvals from an independent board.

Some professions and businesses are regulated by state agencies.

Other businesses or occupations rely on local officials or civil action for enforcement.

Public Health

Health permits or licenses may be required if your business is going to involve certain aspects of public health – for example, aquatics, body art/tattooing, child care, food service, etc.

The Nevada Division of Public and Behavioral Health (NDPBH) provides state licenses and permits in this area. Click their box on the right to see the types of businesses they regulate.

The NDPBH issues health permits for these activities in all parts of Nevada except (1) Carson City and Douglas County, (2) Clark County, and (3) Washoe County. For those three areas, links to the relevant local health agencies are provided on the right. In some instances, you may need both a state and local permit. Review the NDPBH and/or local agency websites for guidance.

MARKETING

A business, product or service seldom sells itself.

Think about what you are selling. Think about who will need it or want it. Why will they need it or want it? Why should they buy it from you?

Think about how and where you tell that story. How do you reach your customer?

Put together an outline of your thoughts. This is the start of your marketing plan.

Back to Guide Menu

FOCUS ON:

- ✓ YOUR CUSTOMER AND AUDIENCE
- ✓ YOUR MARKETING BUDGET
- ✓ YOUR UNIQUE SELLING PROPOSITION

THE BASICS OF A MARKETING PLAN

The Basics of a Marketing Plan

Your Plan Should Identify Six Things:

- Your Mission or Vision Statement
- Your Company Objective
- Your Market Environment – Research and Analysis
- Your Target Customers – Research and Analysis
- Your Competition and How They Match Up to You – Research and Analysis
- Your Action Plan

The “Action Plan” is About Media Mix:

- What media tools are best for reaching your target customers
- Advertising, public relations, sales strategies – all of these tools (and more) need to be considered, studied and figured out.
- Research and analysis are critical to putting the pieces together in a way that will work for your business objective, market environment and target customers.
- Your own insight into customers, environment, and competition is important too. Ask intelligent questions, be open to facts that may be different than you expected, and adjust accordingly.

Marketing Tips:

- Have a clear intention – know what you want to be, do, or have.
- Take consistent action – do the things necessary to achieve the desired outcome.
- Transform your passion into a market position.
- Market position evolves from your understanding the defining characteristics of your product or service. The primary elements of positioning are Pricing, Quality, Customer Service, Distribution and Packaging.
- You must define your product or service – or a competitor will do it for you.
- Identify your greatest strength and use it to position your product or service.
